INTRODUCTION

The National Library of Medicine selects journals for Index Medicus with the advice and guidance of a group of consultants that includes physicians, scientists, medical librarians, and editors of a number of American medical journals. Technical support for the review of specific publications is drawn from additional specialists in all areas of biomedicine. The consultants have the continuing, difficult task of evaluating old and new journals for indexing in MEDLARS® to ensure that they satisfy the requirements for quality, coverage, comprehensiveness, and scope for which the Library has been striving in its indexes for almost 100 years.

The Library indexes the periodical literature that has been judged most useful to Index Medicus users. It is not possible to include every journal that might contain useful articles and more journals are recommended for inclusion than can actually be indexed. An effort is made to maintain a reasonable balance of subject matter. The inclusion of a journal should not be construed as indicating that it is considered superior to one that is not indexed.

The 2,432 journals being indexed for Index Medicus as of January 1977 are listed in four sections:

- (1) Alphabetic listing by abbreviated title, followed by full title;
- (2) Alphabetic listing by full title, followed by abbreviated title;
- (3) Alphabetic listing by subject field; and
- (4) Alphabetic listing by country of origin.

The symbol "s" is used before the titles of those journals which are indexed selectively, i.e., indexed only for articles relating to the field of biomedicine.

A supplementary page is published in the monthly Index Medicus, when necessary, to list additions, deletions, and changes in the titles of journals indexed in Index Medicus.

Special List journals being indexed in cooperation with other institutions are listed in separate sections after the listings of Index Medicus journals. Citations from these journals appear in other MEDLARS bibliographies and in MEDLINE (MEDLARS On-Line), but not in Index Medicus.

ABBREVIATIONS OF JOURNAL TITLES

In 1962 the National Library of Medicine published its rules for the abbreviation of journal titles¹ and used these rules through 1970. The 1971 issue of the List of Journals Indexed in Index Medicus (LJI) marked the first change in rules since 1962. These rules, with few revisions, were published as the National Library of Medicine Rules for Abbreviation of Periodical Titles, appearing as an appendix to MEDLARS Abbreviations for Medical Journal Titles published in July 1971.²

Beginning in 1971, the journal title abbreviations used in the List of Journals Indexed in Index Medicus were formulated according to the rules of the American National Standard for the Abbreviation of Titles of Periodicals.³ The National Library of Medicine now follows the International Standard ISO-4-1972: Documentation—International Code for the Abbreviation of Titles of Periodicals,⁴ which is an adaption of the American standard and nearly identical to it.

Since the rules used by NLM formed the base of the American standard in 1963, few changes were required in revising the form of the abbreviations of journal titles. Greater change is reflected in the abbreviation of the individual words of the titles. The major changes are:

1. Words ending in -ology, with their derivatives and cognates, are consistently abbreviated to -ol.
2. Words ending in -iatry are not abbreviated, but cognates and derivatives are abbreviated to -iatr.
3. Association and its cognates are abbreviated to Assoc.
4. Points of the compass are abbreviated more consistently.
5. Place names and derivative adjectives are abbreviated more freely.

1. Rogers, Frank B., and Charen, Thelma. Abbreviations for medical journal titles. Bull. Med. Libr. Assoc. 50:311-352, July 1962.

2. Charen, Thelma, and Gillespie, Constantine J. MEDLARS abbreviations for medical journal titles. Bull. Med. Libr. Assoc. 59:420-429, July 1971.

3. American National Standards Institute, American National Standard for the Abbreviation of Titles of Periodicals. Approved September 16, 1969. ANSI, 1430 Broadway, New York, New York 10018. $2.75.

4. International Standards Organization. International Standard ISO-4-1972 (E). Documentation—International Code for the Abbreviation of Titles of Periodicals. Available from American National Standards Institute, 1430 Broadway, New York, New York 10018.

6. Words ending in -kunde have been changed from -k to -kd.
7. Words denoting periodicity (e.g., Monatschrift) are no longer contracted.

The revision results in a neater and more consistent system and has the greater advantage of following an Anglo-American standard which in turn has wide international acceptance.

PLACE OF PUBLICATION

Place of publication is based on the location of the following, in order of choice: (1) major publisher; (2) minor publisher with distinctive imprint; (3) official sponsoring body (society, academy, institution, drug company, government agency, etc.); (4) editorial office of the official sponsoring body; (5) business office of the sponsoring body; (6) printer.

When examination of the journal over a period of years discloses many changes in publisher or printer, the location of the sponsoring agent is the preferred place of publication. When the editorial offices of the sponsoring agent change frequently, the permanent or official address of the body is preferred.

INTERNATIONAL STANDARD SERIAL NUMBER

The International Standard Serial Number (ISSN) is a serial identifier consisting of a unique seven digit number and an eighth check digit. The ISSN uniquely identifies a serial title, regardless of language, and is therefore useful in international information exchange and in machine storage of serials data. The ISSN is assigned to a serial title by the appropriate national center of the International Serials Data System (ISDS). The National Serials Data Program (NSDP) of the Library of Congress is the United States Center of the ISDS. The ISSN is irrevocably linked to the key title of the serial. If the title of a continuing serial changes, a new ISSN must be assigned to the new title. In the List of Journals Indexed in Index Medicus, the ISSN, if known, appears at the end of each entry in the Abbreviation Listing.

Questions or comments on the information in this publication should be directed to: Head, Serial Records Section, Technical Services Division, National Library of Medicine.
